Plaintiff

v.

Experian Information Solutions, Inc., Equifax
Information Services, LLC, and Allied
Collection Services, Inc.,

Defendants

Case No.: 2:23-cv-01621-JAD-DJA

Order Directing Clerk to Enter Judgment
Against Defendant Allied Collection Services, Inc.

[ECF No. 20]

In February 2024, plaintiff April Zacarias filed a notice of acceptance of defendant Allied Collection Services, Inc.’s offer of judgment under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure (FRCP) 68.¹ She asks that the clerk of court enter judgment against Allied Collection Services in the amount of the offer and schedule a date by which motions for attorneys’ fees and costs must be filed.²

FRCP 68 authorizes a litigant to make an offer of judgment to resolve a case. If the opposing party timely “serves written notice accepting the offer, either party may then file the offer and notice of acceptance, plus proof of service.”³ Once filed, the “clerk must then enter judgment.”⁴ Zacarias served her acceptance through the court’s electronic-filing system and filed Allied’s offer.⁵ So, because Zacarias has met FRCP 68’s requirements, and with good cause appearing and no reason to delay,
